PUBLISHED THIS WEEK

A YELLOW JOURNALIST

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

Author of "In the Bishop's Carriage"

Illustrated. 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

This novel has the true newspaper thrill in it from beginning to end. The intense desire to "cover" one's assignment completely and well is brought out in the midst of the melodramatic atmosphere of a modern newspaper.

The Staircase of Surprise

By FRANCES A. MATHEWS

Author of "When Peggy Comes to Town," etc. Four full-page illustrations by Harry C. Edwards. 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

A madly exciting story of the Chinese-Japanese War.

The Carlyles

By Mrs. BURTON HARRISON. 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

A story of the Civil War in which Southern girls win.

The Game and the Candle

By FRANCES DAVIDGE

Author of "The Misfit Crown." 12mo. Ornamental Cloth, $1.50

A novel of modern New York.

HARPER'S NEW PUBLICATIONS

From "The Debtor"

THE DEBTOR

By MARY E. WILKINS FREEMAN

THIS popular author, whose New England tales have touched the hearts of thousands of readers in a way that few books have done, has in this novel drawn a hero of no common sort, and his chequered career is appealingly portrayed. It is a searching study of character and also a well-told tale—told in the true Mary E. Wilkins style. There is here a love story of the most alluring type, while the fortunes of "the debtor" are sure to be followed with eager interest.

Illustrated. Price, $1.50

A History of Our Own Times

(Volumes IV. and V.)

By JUSTIN McCARTHY

IN THESE new volumes (IV. and V.) the author carries his admirable history from the Diamond Jubilee of the Reign of Queen Victoria to the accession of Edward VII. This is one of the very few histories that deserve a place also as literature. The author is master of a vigorous, yet smooth and lucid style, and he is especially happy in his portraiture of the various statesmen, reformers, authors, and scientists whose lives figure prominently in the times of which he writes.

Vols. IV. and V. (Uniform with Vols. I.-III.). Illustrated
Price, $1.40 net each

For the Mikado

By KIRK MUNROE

A BRAND-NEW and stirring story of two boys' adventures in the Russo-Japanese War. Daring exploits in submarine-boat warfare are a novel feature. It is a capital story, offering something new and yet wholesome to satisfy the craving of youthful readers for adventure.

Illustrated. Post 8vo, Cloth. Price, $1.25

THE DELUGE

"THE DELUGE" is a story of high and frenzied finance. It is important to every fiction-lover because it grips the attention in a vise of steel. It is important to every patriotic American because it lays absolutely bare the financial dilemma toward which the country has drifted.

But in the clash of the great business conflict, the love element is not for a moment forgotten. It is the refreshing and glorifying touch in a novel of magnificent proportions and persistent absorption.

"A cross-section out of the very heart of our life to-day, with its big and bold energies and passions, the swiftest and intensest human life ever lived by the human race."

TO THE TRADE

The complete copies of the new holiday leader, "HER LETTER," by Bret Harte, with the forty-four splendid illustrations by Arthur I. Keller, in color and tint, are so superior to anything which is now on the market and so much more attractive even than the dummies indicated that the first edition was entirely inadequate to supply the advance orders.

A second edition was called for last week and a third is now "on press," although the book was published only last Wednesday.

Aside from the warm reception which "HER LETTER" has received from the members of the Book Trade, the critics have prophesied its success and have pointed out that as a poem and as an artistic piece of book-making, it is calculated to please all classes and all ages of readers.

"For once, no publisher's promise or critic's praise can exaggerate," says the New York Globe in reviewing "HER LETTER."

An additional and no less important feature is the price, $2.00, a figure far below the artistic value of the book and one which places it in the hands of the public at a bargain.

The dealers are advised to send in their orders early, as the demand is sure to be pressing as Christmas time approaches.

EMERALD CITY-LAND OF OZ

No. Z44Y 9TH DAY—4TH PERIOD—REIGN OF OZMA VOL. Q

IN GREAT DANGER

THE WOGGLE-BUG WOOS TOO MANY

Gets Tangled in His Love Affairs But All Ends Well. Story in Detail Published in Book Form Under the Title:—"The Woggle-Bug Book."

Our distinguished fellow citizen, Mr. H. M. Woggle-Bug, T. E., has just passed through a series of strenuous adventures that came close to ending his career. His curiosity aroused by reading of the exploits of Johann Hoch, Mr. Woggle-Bug began a series of passionate courtships that led him into many ridiculous and compromising positions.

So full of interest to all Ozmanites were these affairs "de coeur" that Mr. Woggle-Bug engaged our famous historian, Mr. L. Frank Baum, to set them forth in chronological order with the result that The Reilly & Britton Co. of Chicago have published the volume in the most attractive form. We reproduce herewith a cut of the book.

It is an extremely interesting and amusing narrative and the make up of the book is most novel.

It is lavishly illustrated in many colors by Ike Morgan and is

THE WEATHER

The Ozmapolitan is pleased to announce that hereafter its weather predictions will be penned by Jack Pumpkinhead, who will be assisted by The Scarecrow. We have engaged them at an enormous salary.

First prediction by the new prognosticators:

Generally fair with clouds and sprinkles of rain or snow gradually changing to something else. Temperature stationary or rising or falling in accordauce with the amount of sunshine. Winds southerly or westerly or variable.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

60,000 KILLED?

No! Almost. Our Reporter made a Slight Error. It was 60,000 SOLD

A reporter for THE OZMAPOLITAN was riding home in a wireless trolley car last night when he overheard a conversation between two strap hangers in which he heard the words, sixty thousand. Of course he thought it had to do with a war or an accident and accordingly telephoned the office. We at once set our headline writer (employed at $500 a week,) to work on this extra.

It turns out that one of the strap hangers is in the book business and was telling of the wonderful sale—60,000 copies—of the Christmas Stocking Series—six little books for little children, published by The Reilly & Britton Co., of Chicago. These little books are put up in miniature book cases made of Japanese wood, with doors that open and shut. They are sure to please all children. The titles embrace "The Night Before Christmas," "Fairy Tales from Grimm," "Little Black Sambo," "Cinderella," "A Child's

THE YELLOW PERIL

WASHEE WASHEE

Oz Endangered by Invasion of Heathen Chinee!

Mars, 8th day, 4th period. (Special wireless aerogram to The Ozmapolitan—Delayed.) Bulletins from hundreds of bookdealers in the United States announce the remarkable popularity of Washee Washee—a heathen Chinee.

The local government at first feared that the Yellow Peril was about to engulf Mars and extend to Oz and Jupiter but late advices dispel all apprehension.

Washee Washee is not a real Chinaman but a "shape-book," an original idea of W. M. Rhoads and published by The Reilly & Britton Co. of Chicago. It contains Laundry Lists for a year—is cut out on the outlines of a Chinaman and is printed on firecracker-red paper. Each page contains a quip or maxim—funny, wise or cynical. It is a useful novelty that

PERSONAL MENTION

L. Frank Baum, the official historian of The Marvelous Land of Oz, will spend the winter in Italy. (His publishers will remain at home.) While abroad Mr. Baum will write a weekly letter exclusively for THE OZMAPOLITAN—subscribe now.

Schuyler Staunton has just delivered to his publishers, The Reilly & Britton Co., the Ms. of a new novel. It will probably be published early next year.

EMPIRE FALLS

DOM PEDRO OVERTHROWN

This news is a little old, but our wireless telegraph system is out of gear and we had to have a good display head for this column. But whether it is old or new news, you will enjoy reading Schuyler Staunton's novel called The Fate of a Crown (The Reilly & Britton Co., Chicago.) It grips your attention at once, and the quick, snappy action with its plots and mysteries, romance and love, sustains your interest to the final chapter and a denoument as unlooked for as it is satisfying.

The scene is laid in Brazil at the time of the revolution which dethroned Dom Pedro, but the hero is an American. Of the character drawing we can only speak in the highest terms of praise. Every Ozmanite should buy a copy of The Fate of a Crown.

It is handsomely bound, well illus-

Practical Selling Points About

BEN BLAIR

Published To-Day

We believe that this story of South Dakota, by a new writer, has more selling possibilities than almost any novel we have yet published.

1. A good, well-written story of ranch life is popular with almost everyone just now, especially if there is the right amount of dashing love-making and stern fighting.

2. THE COVER is the kind that arrests attention. On a counter it can not be overlooked.

3. It has been effectively advertised in one hundred newspapers on and before publication day—creating active advance interest.

4. THE POSTER in full color is, we believe, the most striking ever made for a book. If displayed in your window or store it is bound to excite comment and interest. If you have seen it you will understand why.

The BLACK SPANIEL

By ROBERT HICHENS

Author of "The Garden of Allah," "Felix," etc.

"The Black Spaniel," the long story that with several shorter ones makes up this volume, is as unusual and original as the novels the author has given us previously. Aside from its compelling appeal against vivisection, the story has as its theme a most curious and realistic psychological motive growing out of the cruel treatment of a little dog, that baffles the reader and, even against his will, holds his attention to the last page.

The remaining stories are chiefly of the Arabian desert—the fascinating background of Mr. Hichens's masterpiece "The Garden of Allah."

The Mystery of June 13th

A New Novel by Melvin L. Severy

Author of "THE DARROW ENIGMA"

IN the heart of this book there is a mystery as extraordinary as any in the realm of sensational fiction. It is a mystery which absolutely defies a solution by the most ingenious student of the plots and the contrivances of the novelist. We read of the apocryphal performances of the Fakirs of India—how in plain sight of a hundred onlookers, the magician will throw a rope up in the air, climb up it and actually disappear. In a literary way, the author of "June 13th" does something fully as extraordinary. Sherlock Holmes at his best would have been unable to find the slightest theory to explain the extraordinary disappearance of James Moreton. Those who read the same author's "The Darrow Enigma," which was so popular last year, were vividly impressed with its absolute originality, its difference from the conventional story of the kind. Yet when compared with "The Mystery of June 13th," "The Darrow Enigma" itself seems almost trite and usual.

THE BALLINGTONS.

An Uncommonly Original and Powerful New Novel by Frances Squire.*

IT must be confessed that when a novel by an unknown author comes into the hands of a reviewer he is likely to open it with the listless mental exclamation of "Yet another!" The most sated reader, however, cannot turn many pages of "The Ballingtons" without becoming aware that it is by no means "another," but distinctly itself, a book of striking originality and power, and of intense human interest.

It has a double drama in the lives of two married pairs, in one of which the husband holds the purse, in the other the wife. In the one financial despotism makes the situation insupportable, in the other the wife's refusal to recognize her husband's manly resolution to be independent. . . . We have rarely seen a picture more accurate in detail, more logical in consequences, more true in all its coloring, more subtle in every "nuance" than this of the wedded life of Ferdinand and Agnes Ballington. The writer has felt and thought deeply, with the result of a wonderfully true presentation of marriage under certain conditions, and of the inevitable effect upon a woman's character. . . .

There is never a point where the author swerves from absolute truth. . . . Take it all in all, it is the most remarkable novel that has come to our desk for many a long day. It is written with distinction of style, with large sympathy, with clear vision, but not these qualities nor its absorbing interest put it upon a height unapproached by the great majority of even the best novels of the day; it takes its rare and high place because, as we read we say again and again, not "This is lifelike," but "This is life."

NOTES IN SEASON.

JOHN LANE COMPANY, Bodley Head, has ready "The Little Farm," a new volume in the Country Handbooks, which deals specially with fruit and poultry; and "Underneath the Bough," by Theodora Thompson, who has made a very good anthology which bears as sub-title "A Posie of Other Men's Flowers," and is gotten up as a holiday book.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. publish to-day "Ben Blair; a Story of a Plainsman," by Will Lillibridge, a tale of ranch life in South Dakota, full of dashing love making and stern fighting, of which they have printed 15,000 before putting it on the market; and "The Moon Princess," a new fairy book by Mrs. Carter Harrison, illustrated in color and black and white by Lucy Fitch Perkins, and gotten up uniform with the author's great successes, "Prince Silverwings," now in the fourth edition, and "The Star Fairies," already in the second edition. Very shortly the house will have ready a holiday gift book by Blanche Elizabeth Wade, entitled "A Garden in Pink," which tells an idyllic love story of two young married people who take delight in making themselves a garden, and for which the illustrations are also furnished by Lucy Fitch Perkins.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. publish to-day Captain A. T. Mahan's new work, entitled "Sea Power in Its Relations to the War of 1812," in two handsome volumes, illustrated with photogravure frontispieces, maps, battle plans and twenty-three full-page plates in half-tone, from original illustrations by Henry Reuterdahl, Stanley M. Arthurs, Carlton T. Chapman, etc.; "The Divining Rod," a realistic romance of the oil regions of Pennsylvania in their early days, by Francis N. Thorpe; "Select Poems of Robert Browning," arranged in chronological order, with biographical and literary notes, by A. J. George, editor of "Poetical Works of Wordsworth," etc; also, "The Joy That No Man Taketh from You," by Lilian Whiting. They will publish on the 30th inst. "The Brotherhood War," by John C. Reed; "Two in Italy," by Maud Howe; also, "French Pathfinders in North America," by William Henry Johnson.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY publish to-day "Old-Fashioned Flowers," by Maurice Maeterlinck, illustrated in colors; "The Mystery of June 13," by Melvin L. Severy; "My Lady's Slipper," by Cyrus Townsend Brady; "Humpty Dumpty," by Anna Alice Capen, author of "Babes in Toyland," with illustrations in color by Ethel Franklin Betts; "The Great World," a book of essays by Hamilton Wright Mabie; Tennyson's "Maud," illustrated and decorated by Margaret and Helen Maitland Armstrong; and "The Romance of Royalty," by Fitzgerald Molloy, published in two volumes, with portraits and illustrations. The royalty includes Isabella II. of Spain, Ludwig II. of Bavaria, the Duchess d'Alençon and the Empress Eugenie. "Ancient Legends of Roman History," by Dr. Ettore Pais, is translated by Mario E. Casenza, of the College of the City of New York; "The Silken East," by V. C. Scott O'Connor, is a record of life and travel in Burma; and A. Barbara has written an important book on "The World of Fashion and of Letters at Bath Under Queen Anne and the Georges." All these books are now on the market.

Armour, J. P. Edenindia: a tale of adventure. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1905. S.] c. 4-317 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The hero, a rich young man about New York City, is suddenly informed by his mother that his fortune is gone and on the same day learns that his fiancée has broken her engagement. He goes to work and for a rest goes to Vermont. On a hot night he goes to sleep in his uncle's airship after pulling it up 200 feet above the ground. It breaks loose, and when the young man awakens he is in Edenindia, somewhere the other side of the world. He meets many adventures, finds a long-lost sister and returns to retrieve the fortunes of his family.

Atherton, Mrs. Gertrude Franklin Horn. The travelling thirds. N. Y., Harper, 1905. [O.] c. 3+295 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Mr. and Mrs. Moulton and their two daughters, intensely proper and quite commonplace Americans, decide to include Spain in their itinerary even if they have to travel third-class for obvious reasons. Catalina Shore, a California heiress who has lived her days on a ranch, is a member of their party and is constantly outraging their ideas of conventionality. Complications arise with the appearance of an English army officer and an enamoured Spanish peasant, and love making even in the Alhambra and Toledo and at a bull fight becomes difficult and full of surprises.

Bacon, Alice Mabel. In the land of the gods: some stories of Japan. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1905. [O.] c. 7+273 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The author of "Japanese girls and women," who was a teacher at the Peeresses' School in Tokyo, here gives ten stories dealing with some of the popular beliefs and superstitions of Japan which even today actuate the lives of some forty million wide-awake, progressive and intelligent people. The Japanese stand out among the nations for their actual, practical faith in the close relations between the invisible and visible world and the continuity of all existing life.

Baldwin, May. The girls of St. Gabriel's; il. by Percy Tarrant. Phil., Lippincott, 1905. 3+296 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Story of a young English girl who is sent to a French boarding school, kept by the Sisters. Descriptions of school customs are given and glimpses of French home life in the beautiful old chateau owned by Ursula's uncle. A mystery connected with the chateau proves Ursula's undoing.

Burroughs, J: Ways of nature. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1905. [O.] c. 6+280 p. por. D. cl., $1.10 net.

A series of essays on animal life and nature study written since March, 1903, when Mr. Burroughs contributed a paper to the Atlantic on "Real and sham natural history," which was a vigorous protest against the growing tendency to humanize the lower animals. This article brought down upon its author both good and harsh criticism. The essays here collected are answers to these attacks made upon him, embodying the author's opinions concerning the modern school of romantic nature writers. Some of the separate titles are Bird-songs; The wit of a duck; Animal communication; Do animals think and reflect, etc.

Corbett, Mrs. G: The adventures of Princess Daintipet. Phil., Lippincott, 1905. 7-194 p. col. il. D. cl., †$1.25.

A self-willed little princess, running away from home in order to escape being married, reaches an enchanted forest where the most extraordinary things happen to her, and she has many strange escapes, all of which teaches her that "happiness consists in being good to others as well as to yourself."

Corbett, Mrs. G: Little Miss Robinson Crusoe; with col. frontispiece and other il.

Phil., Lippincott, 1905. 6-269 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

A girl of fourteen is carried out to sea in an open boat; later is rescued from drowning by the vessel that has run her down. This ship is driven on the rocks some weeks later, and when the girl regains consciousness she is alone in a tropical land. Then begin her Crusoe-like experiences; geysers, rich jewels, deserted cottages, and a monkey are discovered, and after months of incredible adventures endured alone, she finds other human beings, including survivors of the wreck; and wealth and happiness eventually come to pass for all hands.

Cornaro, L: The art of living long: a new and improved English version of the treatise, by the celebrated Venetian centenarian, Louis Cornaro; with essays by Joseph Addison, Lord Bacon, and Sir Willam Temple. Milwaukee, Wis., W: F. Butler, 1905. c. '03. 5-214 p. por. O. cl., $1.50.

Louis Cornaro, who died at the age of 98 in 1566, wrote three discourses on "The temperate life," wherein he advocates temperance, simple diet and a quiet life as means to health and a long life. These discourses are now newly translated and supplemented by historical matter relating to Cornaro, his family and house by W: F. Butler. There are also selections from Bacon's "History of life and death," Sir William Temple's "Health and long life" as well as an introduction by Addison.

Coyle, Rob. Francis, D.D. The church and the times: sermons. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1905. 11+307 p. O. cl., *$1.50 net.

Dr. Coyle was Moderator of the 115 General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. With three exceptions, the sermons in this volume were preached to his own people. The theme of the first, from which the book receives its title, runs through them all.

Crockett, S: Rutherford. The cherry ribband: a novel; il. by Claude Shepperson. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1905. c. 8+410 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Scotland in the 17th century is the scene of this romance, centering in the adventures of Raith Ellison, a young Covenanter, who, because of his love for Ivie Ryland, the daughter of a sergeant in the King's army, was disowned by his father and forced out into the world. Surprises, plots, duels and fighting compass round the various characters, giving both hero and heroine unlimited opportunities to prove their mettle.

Day, Holman Francis. Squire Phin: a novel. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1905. [S.] c. 7+393 p. 1 il. D. cl., †$1.50.

The first long story of the author deals with quaint old characters in a Maine village. The "Squire" is a lawyer who knows the hearts and lives of his neighbors. His brother, who has made great trouble in his day, arrives after long absence in charge of a circus in which he has made money to pay his debts. This brings in the comic element of the story. Squire Phin feels the responsibility of the whole town and lives a useful life wholly for others.

Dole, Nathan Haskell. The Latin poets: an anthology. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., 1905. c. 13+365 p. O. cl., $2; hf. cf., $3.50.

Follows the same method as "Greek poets." Gives short sketches of the poets from Plautus and Terence to Juvenal and Lucan, then gives selections in the most celebrated translations from the greatest poets. Should be of utility to schools, colleges and libraries, and also furnishes a compact anthology for the general reader of the reading that has influenced all other reading.

Dunbar, Paul Laurence. Howdy, honey, howdy; il. with photographs by Leigh Richmond Miner; decorations by Will Jenkins. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1905. [O.] c. '96, '05. unp. O. cl., $1.50 net; Presentation ed., cl., $2 net.

The name is the title of the first of a collection of twenty-one poems in negro dialect that the author has written within the past ten years. The poems are set in frames of tinted decoration and the elaborate cover makes the book a showy holiday publication.

Eliot, C: W: The happy life. [New ed.] N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1905. S.] c. '96, '05. 3+40 p. por. D. cl., 75 c. net; art leath., $1.50 net.

President Eliot of Harvard wrote "The happy life" about six years before Charles Wagner gave the world his "Simple life." Certain striking parallels between the two books have been pointed out by leading reviews. They both make a plea for simple living and expound the philosophy of the life worth living. This new edition of "The happy life" was printed at the Merrymount Press, in two colors, and contains a portrait in photogravure of President Eliot.

Ellis, E: Sylvester. Deerfoot in the forest; il. by J. Steeple Davis. Phil., J. C. Winston Co., 1905. c. 366 p. col. front., D. (New Deerfoot ser., no. 1.) $1.

"Deerfoot, the Shawanoe," whom the boys learned to love through the Log Cabin and Deerfoot Series, is again brought to the fore, though he shuffled off the mortal coil in the final volume of the Deerfoot series. This new Deerfoot series, chronologically precedes the old Deerfoot series. The time as in the other books is when Lewis and Clark and their little band of devoted followers, journeyed through the wilderness and prairies from the Ohio to the Pacific. George and Victor our old friends again appear.

The author's aim is to tell the story of the discovery, development and applications of electricity in simple language, suitable to young people. Its uses in the coal mine, as a heating agent, in medicine and surgery, etc., are described, as well as the better known manifestations of electrical energy.

Gifford, Mrs. Augusta Hale. Italy, her people and their story; a popular history of the beginning, rise, development, and progress of Italy from the time of Romulus to that of Victor Emanuel III.; il. from portraits and famous paintings. Bost., Lothrop Publishing Co., [1905.] c. 15+351 p. il. pors. maps, O. cl., $1.40 net.

Mrs. Augusta Hale Gifford, author of "Germany, her people and their story," has prepared a companion book upon Italy, telling the story of this noted country and its people from the earliest period of traditional record to the present time. Much of the information in pt. 2, devoted to Italy, is of exceptional value, as it was gathered by the author from original sources during foreign residence.

Greenslet, Ferris. James Russell Lowell, his life and work. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1905. [O.] c. 10+309 p. il. por. D. cl., $1.50 net.

The author has tried to make Lowell tell his own story as far as possible in brief extracts from letters, journals and private note books. He has with special pains traced out the chronology of Lowell's life and has endeavored to present him in the many-sided phases of his activity, and to give the reader a sense of his personal attraction. There are two concluding chapters containing an analysis of his prose and poetical work based on long study of Lowell's writings. Dr. Greenslet is the author of a life of "Walter Pater," and is also associate editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

A suggestive study of the prophetic element shown to be interwoven with every period of biblical history. This volume traces the history of prophecy through Amos. Accompanying each chapter are bibliographical lists.

Henry, Arthur. Lodgings in town. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1905. [S.] c. 7-327 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Like "An island cabin" and "The house in the woods," this last story, completing the trilogy, tells of experiences in New York City where the narrator first came with only a poem to seek his fortunes. His descriptions of New York scenes and conditions are vivid and the illustrations are excellent. The author did not want to be rich or successful in the usual adaptation of the term. He found a helpmeet and chose the obscurity of a farm in the Catskills from where he sent his optimistic messages to the toilers in lodgings. They are burnt out and make a visit to the city and take an automobile tour in which all the characteristic sights are described in a manner to convey much information.

Ingersoll, Ernest. An island in the air: a story of singular adventures in the Mesa country. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. [S.] c. 6+303 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

More than 50 years ago, Captain Manning, an ex-U. S. A. trooper, started with his family and servants across the plains to California, tempted not only by the gold craze, but by the opportunities offered his boys and girls to find occupations. The story deals with one special episode of the little band. The young people travel ahead of the father and mother, and are separated from them by a cloudburst, finding themselves isolated on a portion of land separated from the main land. Being attacked by a puma, finding an Indian who has been bitten by a rattlesnake, with other equally wonderful adventures, are among the things which happen to the young people before they rejoin the rest of their party.

Macleod, Mary. The Shakespeare story book; with introd. by Sidney Lee; il. by Gordon Browne. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., [1905.] 21+460 p. O. cl., †$1.75.

A new rendering for young people of sixteen of Shakespeare's comedies and tragedies. Sidney Lee in his introduction criticizes Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare as leaving out a great many of the characters and much of the plots of the plays they interpreted for young readers, claiming truthfully that these renderings are fuller and more representative of the spirit of the author.

McSpadden, Jos. Walker. Stories from Wagner. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1905.] c. 14+329 p. il. S. cl., †60 c.; limp leath., †75 c.

The book is directed primarily to the needs of young people, but readers of all ages will find it instructive and entertaining. The author takes the legends and dramas which form the basis of Wagner's operas and has woven each into a direct story. Thus the Ring Cycle, which opens the series is told in four chapters, and the long gaps which come between the librettos of the operas are filled with easy-flowing continuous narrative.

Part of the story of the building of railroads in Southern Texas appeared serially in The Saturday Evening Post under the title "A link in the girdle." The leading spirit in the enterprise is a man of fine character, great knowledge of human nature, and inexhaustible resource. The petty vengeances of rival contractors and the great ingenuity and quick judgment necessary to outwit and baffle old railroad men make an intricate plot, of which the details are really instructive.

The son of one of New York's richest "millionaires" is supposed to have reached nearly forty years of age and to have found his great interest in study of electricity, mechanics, railroads, etc. His father insists upon his marrying and he chooses wisely a girl of fine family and great personal charm. They travel, return to their beautiful home at Newport, then to New York. The husband overloads his wife with gifts, but shows he does not need her companionship. The wild extravagance and unrest of the rich and idle are pictured, but the author works toward a logical and happy ending.

Sidney is a bright, natural, unselfish girl, who is invited to spend the summer on the St. Lawrence with Mr. Cousins from Boston. She finds her oldest cousin, a man of twenty-six, fighting against the verdict that his lungs are threatened, and she sets herself the task of cheering him up, encouraging him to live. All the young people have many good times together, and the autumn brings a happy outlook to the future.

The author of "Daphne" tells the story of a Virginia girl who spends the summer after her mother's death on the coast of Maine. Here she finds a school friend of her mother in great trouble about her son, who has abandoned his profession of law, allowed the family estate to go to ruin and given himself up to vague philosophy and dreams. The girl from Virginia opens his eyes to the beauties and real values of the world and reminds him "that in the Garden of Eden there was a 'tree of life' as well as a 'tree of knowledge.'"

Shorter, Clement King. Charlotte Brontë and her sisters. N. Y., Scribner, 1905. [O.] c. 12+247 p. por. D. (Literary lives.) cl., *$1 net.

Since Mrs. Gaskell wrote her life of Charlotte Bronte, much new material relating to the author of "Jane Eyre" and her family has come to light, but has not been in the interval, gathered into one brief narrative. While making use of a portion of this published material, Mr. Shorter has also added other unpublished material to his little book. To the Brontë enthusiast this will be easily discernible, as it is rich in fresh interest. Charlotte Brontë is permitted to tell her own story mostly in her own words through letters brought to light in recent years. With a story so often told, one could scarcely expect to find the literary charm and earnestness that invest this brief biography.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

OCTOBER 21, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE HARPER INCOME BOND CONVERSION.

As the general creditors of the Harper corporation, at the time of the reorganization of 1900, had their claims adjusted by the issue of income bonds, dollar for dollar, with assurances that an increasing rate of interest could be paid on these bonds and that they would ultimately be worth par, the circular of the present reorganization committee, proposing to take up these bonds at 50 cents on the dollar, by exchanging for them preferred stock with a non-cumulative 6 per cent. dividend simultaneously with an increase of first mortgage bonds from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, is of general importance and of interest to the trade. The circular is signed by Alexander E. Orr as chairman of the reorganization committee, and anything bearing his signature is entitled to the respectful and careful consideration of business men; but the circular is singularly lacking in the information necessary to acquaint holders of income bonds with the actual circumstances and enable them to form a business judgment.

An income bond is a junior security compared with a first mortgage, but takes precedence of stock and is entitled to interest before any dividends can be paid. The likelihood of a dividend on preferred stock in comparison with interest on income bonds is lessened in the present case by the proposed increase of the first mortgage, which means that $100,000 per year, instead of $75,000 per year, must be earned and paid as interest before there is anything for preferred stockholders. Under the scaling of income bonds to 50 per cent. in preferred stock, the return to creditors on their original claims would be limited to 3 per cent. of the par of such claims, instead of the 5 per cent. originally planned, while the security would not be increased but lessened. It is not evident from the circular how much of the $903,000 disbursed during the past five years represents actual earnings, or indeed, whether the earnings have been and would be sufficient to do more than pay interest on the first mortgage bonds, and on this point some specific statement is certainly due to creditors who are asked to exchange income bonds for preferred stock.

The inducement is offered in the circular that the preferred stock shall be represented on the board of directors. But as the preferred stock would be to the amount only of $1,000,000, and the common stock represents nominally $2,000,000, the preferred stockholders would be in a permanent minority. Under the reorganization plan of 1900 the reorganization committee was to be authorized to deliver this $2,000,000 stock to "present stockholders" (of the preceding corporation) "or to Colonel Harvey for his services as president for five years," the stock to be held during the five years in a voting trust. No information has been vouchsafed to creditors as to the disposition or proportioning of this stock, or whether the voting trust will continue. In short, the circular is notable for a surprising paucity of information as to the real facts in the case, and creditors who are asked to exchange bonds for stock at 50 cents on the dollar, without either guarantee or estimate of the possible returns from year to year, are certainly entitled to know the facts It may be unfortunate, from one point of view, that such facts should be made public property and, as in this case, made subject to newspaper discussion — but that is a necessity arising from the fact that the concern is now a corporation and in a position which requires it to ask from its creditors a further readjustment of claims.

THE INTERNATIONAL ADVERTISING ASSOCIATION.

At the second annual convention of the International Advertising Association in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, on October 17, O. H. Blackman, of the Frank Presbrey Company, spoke on "Who Creates Advertising?" He said that advertising is created by the great public itself in the new demands which are made by it. Contrary to public opinion, advertising is a very old custom. He traced it back to the days of Pompeii. He deplored the unclean methods in the business, but hoped they would soon be eliminated.

Ben B. Hampton, president of the Ben Hampton Company, dealt with the question "Who Patronizes the Advertiser?" His answer was everybody except those few unfortunates who are listed as inmates of the insane asylums. People think they are not influenced by advertising, but they are. It acts on them unconsciously.

John Lee Mahin, president of the Mahin Advertising Company, of Chicago, next discussed, "Who Pays for the Advertising?"

"The people who buy advertised articles are the ones who pay for the advertising," he said. "In the same way you pay for the mail trains, letter carriers and postmasters by the purchase of a two-cent stamp."

The convention wound up with a dinner on the evening of the 18th inst. The toastmaster was Job E. Hedges. James M. Beck, Charles Emory Smith, Samuel L. Powers, of Boston; J. Ham Lewis, corporation counsel of Chicago, and John McNaught responded to the toast "Advertising."

THE BEST-SELLING AUTHOR.

"Not long ago," according to The Book Monthly, "there walked into a London bookshop a gentleman who said: 'I should like the works of your best-selling author.' It was not quite a usual demand, and the bookseller thought for a moment before responding to it. Then he went to the other end of his shop, picked out a complete edition of Shakespeare and brought it, with the remark, 'This, sir, is our best-selling author.' The inquiring customer looked and laughed, and said, 'Well, it wasn't Shakespeare I wanted, but I'll take the edition, and I'll not forget the hint that Shakespeare is always first.'"

BOOKS IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND.

According to The Book Monthly the following books are at present most in demand in England:

A Servant of the Public. Anthony Hope.
Starvecrow Farm. Stanley Weyman.
Rose o' the River. Kate Douglas Wiggin.
The Yarn of Old Harbor Town. W. Clark Russell.
By the Gods Beloved. Baroness Orczy.
The Man. Bram Stoker.
The Freemasons. L. S. Gibson.
The Household of Peter. Rosa Nouchette Carey.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

The Booksellers' League gave its first monthly dinner of the season on the evening of the 18th inst., at the Aldine Association. There were present nearly one hundred members of the League and their friends, who were cordially welcomed by the president, F. D. Lacy. Among the guests of the evening were Arthur Henry, author of "The House in the Woods," etc., who spoke pleasantly on the relations of the author with the booktrade, and made an earnest plea for less and better work by the author; John William Sargent, author of "Toasts for the Times," who performed some sleight-of-hand tricks; and Charles H. Caffin, author of "How to Study Pictures," who dwelt at length on the effeminacy of modern literature and art and denounced in vigorous language what Bernard Shaw calls the "Aphrodesiac" tendency of the modern artist.

During the evening there was presented to each member of the League a copy of a book entitled "The Booksellers' League, a history of its formation and ten years of its work," prepared for the association by A. Growoll. In recognition of this and his other services on behalf of the Booksellers' League its members presented to Mr. Growoll a handsome silver loving cup suitably inscribed, and a set of resolutions, together with a number of complimentary letters from the leading publishers who had received advance copies of the volume referred to above, handsomely bound in green crushed levant morocco, a loving gift of James Macdonald—a very masterpiece of the bibliopegic art. Mrs. A. H. Leypoldt, who prepared the excellent index to the history of the League, and who has rendered other services to the association, was elected an honorary member of the League and received a gold League button enclosed in a gold locket with an appropriate inscription.

CONVENTION OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF STATIONERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

The first session of the first annual convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers of the United States was called to order at the Planters' Hotel, St. Louis, Mo., at 10:40 A.M., on October 10, by President Fletcher B. Gibbs.

Ninety-five delegates responded to the roll call. There were present almost two hundred representatives of the stationery trade. The secretary reported that the association had on record fifteen associations with a membership of 461, and 55 individual members, making a total of 516. The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $248.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of the following: President, John A. Schlener, Minneapolis; first vice-president, John A. Walker, Jersey City; second vice-president, W. J. Kennedy, St. Louis; third vice-president, Theo. L. C. Gerry, New York; secretary, R. J. Smith, Minneapolis; treasurer, Abner K. Pratt, Boston; auditor, H. C. Bainbridge, Brooklyn.

The Committees on Inks and Mucilages,

Pens and Pencils and Hardware and Glassware then made their reports, which concluded the morning's work.

The second session was called to order at 2:30 P.M., the president, Mr. Gibbs, reading a letter from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce inviting the members of the association to visit the floor of the Board of Exchange during the hour of its session.

After the discussion of the reports submitted during the morning's session and the disposal of miscellaneous business, C. W. Burrows, of the Burrows Brothers Company, delivered an address on postal rates, discriminations and abuses.

W. J. Kennedy, the vice-president of the National Association, and president of the St. Louis Stationers' Club, concluded the day's session by extending a hearty and cordial welcome to the delegates. In bringing his address to a close he said: "I now desire, on behalf of the St. Louis Club, to present to our National President a slight token of esteem in the shape of a gavel, appropriately engraved, which we trust will enable him to maintain order during our sessions and afterwards occupy a place of honor among the other ornaments in his den. We hope that its presence in this collection will always keep fresh in his memory the esteem in which he is held by the St. Louis Club."

The remaining sessions were of equal interest, and into the banquet was crowded all the entertainment and amusement the members could hold. All in all the convention was a splendid success, and was well worth the time given to it.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE FLASHLIGHT BOOK CONTROVERSY.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: In your editorial upon what you call "The Flashlight Book Controversy," in the last number of your publication, you say: "The Harper House then explained that they had no knowledge that the German and English publishers had already disposed of the book, but had, in conformity with their custom, promised to pay the author a royalty of 10 per cent., though under no legal obligation to do so," etc., etc. The fact is that the Harpers had a definite knowledge that the American rights had been disposed of, as you will see by the following letters written to and by Voigtlaender, the German publisher and owner of the copyright:

45 Albemarle Street,
LONDON, July 10, 1905.

"DEAR SIR: Our New York House have had their attention called to a book published by you entitled 'Mit Blitzlicht und Büchse,' and they desire us to ask you if you would supply them with electros of the fifteen full page illustrations, of which a list is enclosed, and if so at what price. The idea is that our New York House should use these in connection with an article, the result of which would probably increase the sale of the original work. We would be obliged to you if you would let us have a reply as soon as possible."

HARPER & BROTHERS.

To this letter the German publisher replied on July 12, 1905:

"Permit me to inform you that Messrs. Hutchinson & Co. have arranged for an edition of 'Flashlight and Rifle' in the English language for both England and America. I am therefore not in a position to accede to your wishes, and beg that you will communicate regarding them with the firm above named."

We bought the American rights from Messrs. Hutchinson after Harper & Brothers had an opportunity to purchase them, but they were unwilling to pay the price asked and pirated the book in the face of full information as to the value of the American market. Only a few days before publication did they offer to pay a royalty to the author which was, of course, refused. The proof is ample that Messrs. Harper acted after full information, and they did not finally publish the book until October, nearly three months later than the date of these letters.

Yours very truly,

PROTEST AGAINST CARELESS HANDLING OF AUTHORS' MS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: In behalf of authors I wish to protest against careless handling of manuscript. It is often the case that a freshly typewritten story, submitted crisp and readable to a publisher, is returned from its journey dogeared, torn, soiled and sometimes ruthlessly marked "Return" or "N. G." with a heavy blue or indelible pencil. Suppose the manuscript is a story of 5000 words; the author who does not own a typewriter must usually pay the market price for copying, five cents a folio or 100 words. If he has two copies made, (as he should do to guard against loss,) the cost will be eight cents a hundred—$4 for copying.

If an author is sure of his sale, $4 perhaps is not much of an item. But where he must expect several refusals before acceptance, and the chance of ultimate refusal, while he does not grudge the first $4, it seems an unnecessary expense to be forced to have the story recopied after its first or second reading simply because "readers" consider manuscript as so much merchandise. Then take the case of a 75,000-word novel. The chances are that an author could not get this well copied for less than $30, or two copies for $45 (these figures are below market price).

If the novel is worthy of real consideration it is probably read by three "readers" and then reported upon to the firm. Two of the reports perhaps being favorable, then it is handed over to the sales department for a reading and opinion, and perhaps read by two there; then it goes to the firm for reading.

If the novel is finally "turned down" its freshness is often totally destroyed, and as one author said despairingly, "My child looks as if it came out of the ark and I can't afford to have it recopied." The next publisher to whom the novel is sent receives a manuscript which shows much careless handling, and the impression is that it has been "travelling" for months. Every publisher naturally likes to have the "first chance."

Is there not some way in which authors, agents and publishers can combine to protect the interests of the authors and at the same time make the publisher's burden lighter? For burden it undoubtedly is to read thousands of manuscripts of different shapes, sizes and colors. I refer to publishers of books, magazines and also newspapers.

If every one who "reads" a manuscript, whether a professional reader or not, would bear in mind the fact that he is handling the precious property of a brother struggler who probably cannot afford to pay for the recopying of the manuscript, I believe a good deal of wear and tear could be saved.

This protest is naturally one-sided. The author has much advice given to him in various pamphlets and printed slips sent him by the publishers, about typewriting, quality and size of paper, punctuation, ink, etc.; and I think publishers will agree that the labor of reading the average manuscript submitted in 1905 is less than that connected with those submitted in 1900, authors having been glad to adopt the various suggestions made to them.

The question now is: Will the publishers see that the golden rule is practiced as regards the careful handling of manuscripts at all times and in all places?

I believe authors will appreciate this and reciprocate when possible.

AN AUTHOR, AGENT AND PUBLISHER.

NEW YORK, October 10, 1905.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM LEWIS FRASER, until 1897 manager of the art department of the Century Magazine, etc., under Superintendent Alexander W. Drake, died on October 16 at the home of his son at Brookhaven, L. I. Mr. Fraser was born in London, Eng., November 5, 1841, and went to Canada with his parents in 1856. In 1881 he came to New York to take the position of art manager for the Century Company, which he held until about eight years ago, when he resigned to devote his time to the literary side of art and to lecturing. In 1896 he was president of the Salmagundi Club. He also belonged to the Players, Grolier and Black and White Clubs, and was a member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Architectural League and the Municipal Art League. He leaves a widow, a son, Malcolm, an artist, and a married daughter.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

AT the final accounting of the estate of Edward Noyes Westcott, the author of "David Harum," it was stated that the surrogate had received about $125,000 in royalties from the sale of the book.

THE true name of the author of the audacious novel, "The Storm of London," in which the doings of the populace of London, after being deprived of all clothing, are depicted, is Mme. F. Blaze de Bury. Mme. de Bury is at present in France engaged on another novel. John Long, the English publisher of "The Storm of London," has sold over one hundred thousand copies of the book, and the American publishers, Herbert B. Turner & Co., report a brisk sale.

DR. W. A. P. MARTIN, who has been for the past three years associated with Viceroy Chang Chih Tung of Central China helping him push the cause of education, is again in the United States for a short stay. He brings the news that on his return he will assist in the formation of a great Union College in Peking, an institution which will be supported jointly by the missionary societies of the Methodist, the Congregational and the Presbyterian churches. This is a tremendous enterprise and it is planned to be a sort of model for the guidance of the Chinese government schools. Dr. Martin expects to publish through the Revell Company a small book embodying his two latest lectures, "The Opening of China," a drama in five acts, and "Three Years in Central China with Viceroy Chang."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Atlantic Monthly for November will contain an article by Henry Holt, senior member of Henry Holt & Co., on "The Commercialization of Literature," which is an illuminating review of the half-truths of "The Publisher's Confession."

WITH its current number Longman's will cease to exist. It is a matter of regret that so good a periodical as Longman's has, since its inception, failed to find support enough to warrant its publication in these days; but such seems to be the fact, and so we must say good-bye to an old friend—with his "At the Sign of the Ship," and all.

The Printing Art for October contains a suggestive "Analysis of Design in Advertisements," by Oscar Percy Hatton; a report on the advertisement competition for which Printing Art awarded two prizes, with a reproduction of the most promising and striking designs submitted; an article on "Ornament in Type Composition," with a number of examples furnished by the School of Printing in Boston and others; an editorial on "Education for Printing" and a number of notes and comments. Besides the pages of text there are a number of inserts and artistic advertising pages. This particular number should be in the hands of every one interested in good printing and advertising.

THE London Publishers' Circular, after an independent existence of sixty-two years, is about to go again into the hands of a limited company, consisting chiefly of publishers and booksellers, including the Messrs. Longmans and Mr. Murray—A. H. Hallman Murray and Hubert Longman being directors with R. B. Marston, the editor of the Circular. The Publishers' Circular was started in 1836 by a number of London publishers, prominent among whom were the Longmans and Murrays, who chose the late Sampson Low as editor. Mr. Low took over the publication in 1843, and since then he and his successors have published the paper as an independent journal. During the process of liquidating the affairs of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., it became a question whether the Circular and the other bibliographical publications of the house might profitably be continued. It is therefore gratifying to note that the English booktrade has been public-spirited enough to assure the continuance not only of the Publisher's Circular, but of the other bibliographical properties connected with it as well.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have this month begun the publication of Dutton's Monthly Readers' Guide, which will be devoted to a review of their recent and forthcoming books, giving a frank concensus of current critical opinion and comment upon them. The intimate connection of the Dutton house with a number of the leading London houses enables them to secure a large variety of the leading foreign modern books.

THE October number of the Bulletin of Bibliography, published by the Boston Book Company, contains a note on the "Origin of the North American Review," another instalment of Mr. Cole's Bermuda bibliography; a reference list "On the Art of Prolonging Life," by Eugene Fairfield McPike; also, the seventh contribution to "Magazine Perplexities," by F. W. Faxon, who deals with the Magazine of Western History and the National Magazine, two hard nuts for bibliographers to crack. There are also the usual departments, etc.

THE GROLIER CLUB, of New York, will publish next month a "Catalogue of Original and Early Editions of Some of the Poetical and Prose Works of English Writers from Wither to Prior," with collations, notes and more than 200 facsimiles of title-pages and frontispieces. This work, in three volumes, which was undertaken by a special committee of the club, is the second in a series of bibliographies of English writers, the first, issued in 1893, covering the period from Langland to Wither. Like the earlier series, this one has been prepared for the use and guidance of collectors. The present series will conform in style to the volume of 1893. The volumes will be of royal octavo size, on Holland paper of a special tint, similar to that of this announcement, and the edition will be limited to 400 copies on paper and three on Roman vellum.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Goldsmith Bros. have taken a temporary store on Baltimore Street, near Howard, pending the construction of their own building elsewhere, and request the publishers to send their catalogues and announcements.

GREENFIELD, IND.—B. F. Daily has sold his bookstore to D. D. Pike.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—George Brumder, H. C. Marcker, manager, in announcing that he has sold his complete stock of English books to A. C. McClurg & Co., of Chicago, writes: "While retiring from the English book business only, we thank you and all other publishers for their kind support they rendered us in conducting a first-class bookstore, and we are sorry to say that the conditions are such at present that a fair profit cannot be realized in the retail book business. We kindly ask you to cancel all fall orders given to your travelling salesman, also all standing orders for imprint circulars and review copies for the various local papers and journals, formerly sent through the International News Co., New York, or other channels."

NEW YORK CITY.—James Kelly has removed to 129 West Twentieth Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—S. F. McLean & Co. have removed from 430 Sixth Avenue to No. 46 Bible House. They are discontinuing efforts for transient trade, and in their new quarters will push their catalogue and mail order business in old books, which in the past year or two has grown to be the most important part of their business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEORGE A. MOSHER, who has been for five years connected with the Burrows Brothers Company of Cleveland, has been appointed superintendent of the Lorain County Children's Home at Oberlin, O.

THE first edition of Bret Harte's "Her Letter," in holiday form, with illustrations in color and tint by Arthur I. Keller, was entirely inadequate to supply the advance orders received by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. A second edition was called for last week and a third is now in press, although the book was published only last Wednesday, the 18th inst.

THE PILGRIM PRESS have just ready "St. Abigail of the Pines," a stirring story of outdoor life on sea and shore, by William Allen Knight, author of "The Song of Our Syrian Guest," of which 60,000 copies have been sold. The new book tells a tale of old New Bedford whaling days, with a mastery of seamanship and a rare knowledge of human life and love. It is the author's first work of fiction.

THE CENTURY BOOK COMPANY, Whitewater, Wis., have purchased from William J. Park Salibury's "Orthœpy," which after twenty-five years holds its own among the books on its subject. High schools and colleges are giving more and more attention to the pronunciation of English, and there would seem a good field for this book, which has been endorsed by some of the best educators.

B. HERDER, St. Louis, has among his newest publications "In Quest of Truth," glimpses of Roman scenes during the reign of the Emperor Domitian, by Robert Muenchgesang; an edition of Anne Manning's "Household of Sir Thomas More;" "Joan of Arc," by Mrs. Maxwell-Scott, of Abbotsford; and "Health and Holiness," by Frederick Thompson, a study of the relations between "Brother Ass," the body and "his rider," the soul, with a preface by George Tyrrell.

ANDREW CARNEGIE has ordered an edition of 500 copies of "The Collected Poems of Wilfred Campbell," published by Fleming H. Revell Co., for he thinks so highly of the Canadian poet's work that he intends to present a copy of his poems to every one of his libraries in the English-speaking world. The edition will be substantially bound, and will bear the simple inscription, "Presented by Andrew Carnegie." Mr. Campbell's work is known to all readers of the better magazines, and from the time when his poems first appeared the critics prophesied that he would eventually make his mark.

ARNOLD & COMPANY, Philadelphia, announce two new books by Mrs. Rorer, who is inexhaustible in her ideas about making useful, practical and fascinating cook-books. "The Every-Day Menu Book" contains a program for every meal in the year, arranged by months and days, with special menus for special occasions, and a department of menus without meats, very useful for those having to entertain vegetarian friends; and "Cakes, Icing and Fillings," which will be a mine of information to any one interested in the cake problem, always one of anxiety and unrest to average housekeepers.

D. B. UPDIKE announces the establishment of a bindery at the Merrymount Press, under the charge of Peter Verburg, whose work is already favorably known in Chicago and New York. Mr. Verburg, who studied for some time under Douglass Cockerell, was at one time an associate of Miss Starr in her bindery at Hull House, Chicago, and later on was employed by Ralph Randolph Adams at his bindery in New York both as a designer and a binder. He undertakes not alone decorative bindings, but makes a specialty of the plainer, more severe, half and full leather bindings at moderate prices.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have prepared for the holiday season two very clever and attractive gift books. The one is entitled "Shakespeare's Sweetheart," by Sara Hawks Sterling, and five full-page illustrations, in color, by Clara Elsene Peck. The other book is entitled "Knocks, Witty, Wise and ——," by Minna Thomas Antrim, uniform with "Phases, Mazes and Crazes of Love." The volume is printed in colors, with illustrations by Clara E. Peck and Blanche Creer. They also call attention to "That Reminds Me," containing 220 stories such as the title suggests, a net book with the regular discount.

THE STATUTE LAW BOOK COMPANY, Washington, D. C., are preparing photo-facsimile reprints of five more collections of early laws, viz.: "Laws for the government of the District of Louisiana," E. Stout, 1804; "Laws of the Territory of Louisiana," Joseph Charless, 1810; "Acts passed by the General Assembly of the Territory of Missouri in October, November and December, 1818," Joseph Charless, 1819; "Journal of the Missouri State Convention," I. N. Henry & Co., 1820; also, "Private, local and temporary laws . . . of Nebraska," Journal Company, 1873. The edition of each has been limited to fifty copies.

IT is a singular coincidence that three of the new novels this fall by well-known authors find their leading characters in the world that touches the theatre. Anthony Hope's "Servant of the Public" is the personal side of a popular actress's life. Norman Duncan's "The Mother" is a vaudeville actress whose life is transformed by her love for her boy, and Mary E. Wilkins Freeman's "The Debtor" is an unfortunate man who finds his vocation in doing a turn before the footlights. There is absolutely no similarity at all in the stories other than this. It shows, however, how the minds of authors may start from the same point and see wholly diverse things.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have a timely book in "That They All May Be One," by Amos R. Wells, editor of The Christian Endeavor World, in which the author deals with the unification of religious denominations and the doing away with all strife and with whatever hinders union and concord among the great religious bodies. In connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the 100th birthday of William Lloyd Garrison they call attention to their publications on the subject—"William Lloyd Garrison, the Abolitionist," by Archibald K. Grimke; and "The Moral Crusader, William Lloyd Garrison," a biographical essay by Goldwin Smith.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will issue immediately "Napoleon's Notes on English History," which were written on the eve of the French Revolution and are now edited, with the findings of later research, by Henry Foljambe Hall; "The Furniture of Windsor Castle," by Guy Francis Laking, who has done his work under the personal supervision of King Edward VII., and describes all the artistic furniture of the castle which has been acquired since 1640; and "B. R. Haydon and His Friends," in which George Paston has brought together delightful information about the celebrated contemporaries among whom the great English painter lived his interesting life.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY announce "The Art of the Venice Academy," by Mary Knight Potter, which will be the fifth volume in the well-known Art Galleries Series, which already contains "The Louvre;" "The Pitti Palace;" "The Vatican;" and "The National Gallery of London." They also complete the list of their juvenile publications for this year with Mrs. Johnston's new volume in the Little Colonel series, which bears the name "The Little Colonel's Christmas Vacation," with a special holiday edition of "Two Little Knights of Kentucky," a companion volume to last year's "The Little Colonel;" and with "Our Little Mexican Cousin," the new volume in the Little Cousin series.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have now ready "The Professor's Legacy," by Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick, who lets an Englishman studying in a German university inherit a daughter and an unfinished work on "Corals" and find his life somewhat complicated thereby. During the month this house expect to issue "Loser's Luck," a story of a Central American revolution, by Charles Tenney Jackson; "Animal Snapshots and How Made," by Silas A. Lottridge, of East Orange, N. J.; and "The Peter Newell Mother Goose," in which Caroline Sherwin Bailey relates some very quaint adventures of a little girl among the characters of Goose Land, which Peter Newell draws in very humorous and artistic manner.

According to the Philadelphia Item Governor Pennypacker is reported to have replied to the query why he proposed selling a collection that was so dear to him as his books and pictures: "Tell those who wonder that it is an evidence of the honesty of the State officials. They are obliged to sell their books and pictures in order to live, their salaries not being sufficient." We wonder whether the difference between the probable selling price and the price that was actually paid for the collection was not after all the main reason for offering the collection for sale. The difference has been variously estimated by those who are well informed to be between eighty and one hundred thousand dollars.

D. Appleton & Co. have just ready "Purple and Fine Linen," a story of a Newport society woman and her millionaire home in New York; "The Flute of Pam," in which John Oliver Hobbes shows her poetic imagination and perfect technique; "A Yellow Journalist," by Miriam Michelson, author of "In the Bishop's Carriage;" "The Staircase of Surprise," a thrilling story of the Chinese-Japanese war, by Frances A. Mathews; "The Game and the Candle," by Frances Davidge; and "The Carlyles," by Mrs. Burton Harrison. They have received many applications for permission to translate Senator Beveridge's "The Young Man and His World," and to publish it simultaneously in France and Germany.

The Fleming H. Revell Company are issuing this week "When Joy Begins," by Clara E. Laughlin; "The Pen of Brahma," by Beatrice Barband. A new edition of James M. Ludlow's "Deborah," whose "Sir Raoul" was issued last week. They are putting out a new edition of Hugh Black's "Friendship" in an edition de luxe, this going into its 50th thousand; Caroline Atwater Mason's "Little Green God," a sixth edition, 12th thousand; William Geo. Jordan's "Self Control," a third edition. Other recent books that are going into new editions are Gunsaulus' "Paths to Power," a third edition; "St. Cecilia of the Court," by Isabella R. Hess; "St. Cuthbert's," by Robert E. Knowles, and a second edition of Norman Duncan's "The Mother."

Bobbs-Merrill Co. have just issued "Letters of Labor and Love," containing letters of help and counsel which Samuel M. Jones, the famous "Golden Rule" mayor of Toledo, wrote from time to time to the men who worked for him in his machine shop, which have been pronounced by many to be little masterpieces on the relations between employer and employee; "Radiant Motherhood," by Margaret E. Sangster, a friendly message to mothers who believe in the life simple and the life beautiful, who think this a good world to live in, and are striving to bring up their children to make it a better one; and "Everyday Etiquette," a practical manual of social usages by Marion Harland and Virginia Van de Water, for which there promises to be a great demand.

Reilly & Britton Co. have just ready "Roasts," designed and compiled by W. M. Rhoads, a "cut-out" or "shape book" representing a bunch of half-opened ears of Indian corn reproduced in natural colors. The body of the book, however, contains "roasts" of people and places and of the fads and foibles of mankind, done to a turn by the author of "The Stein Toast Book." A little later the same happy hand will have ready "My Artist Friends," which is to be a birthday book and autograph album combined, with blank spaces left for drawings of objects or characters and illustrations of well-known nursery rhymes as specified under each date. The cover of this compilation will be a reproduction in many colors of an artist's palette cut to exact shape.

The Century Company have brought out this week "Versailles and the Court Under Louis xiv.," by James Eugene Farmer, an accurate, chronological record of the daily life of the Grand Monarch and his brilliant court, fully illustrated; "With the Empress Dowager," by Katherine Carl, the story of the daily life of the Chinese Court, its gay parties, its jealousies and tragedies, by one who lived there for eleven months while painting four portraits of the Empress; "Jules of the Great Heart," by Lawrence Mott, stories of an adventurous French-Canadian outlaw trapper, some of which appeared in The Century magazine; also, "The Wheat Princess," by Jean Webster, the love story of an American millionaire's daughter in Italy that will appeal to the many admirers of "Patty."

Longmans, Green & Co. have a new novel by Stanley J. Weyman, entitled "Starvecrow Farm," in which the author of "A Gentleman of France" leaves Gallic scenery and Gallic impulsiveness for the scenes and atmosphere of the Lake Poets in the years following the battle of Waterloo, when labor riots and an untried, unstable government were in the air. It is a highly dramatic story, in which suspense is the dominant quality. Andrew Lang's new Christmas book for the children is also ready, and this year bears the title "The Red Romance Book." The old stories of heroic times are edited and reworded with Lang's rare sympathy with children's likings, and H. J. Ford has furnished abundantly of vivid, suggestive and decorative illustrations.

Harper & Brothers have just issued the two concluding volumes of Justin McCarthy's famous "History of Our Own Times," which cover from the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria to the accession of King Edward vii. Among the new material is a retrospective survey of the "Victorian Age," in which is given a summary of the careers of the statesmen, reformers, authors, artists and scientists that have dominated English thought for the past seventy years, many of whom were personally known to the author. Also ready is Mrs. Wilkins-Freeman's "The Debtor," a story of life in a New Jersey village, full of keen psychological studies; and "For the Mikado," by Kirk Munroe, a capital book for boys, with a Japanese and an American boy as heroes, and many adventures, some of the most exciting dealing with submarine warfare.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY have issued a new edition of "Low Tide on Grand Pré," by Bliss Carman, including also "Ballads of Lost Haven;" "John Fiske," by Thomas Sergeant Perry, forming volume 27 of the Beacon biographies; "A Handbook of Figure Skating," by George H. Browne, arranged for use on the ice; "Where Copper was King," a tale of early mining days on Lake Superior, by James North Wright; "Gumption," a tale of Yankee push and progress, by Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr.; "Bacon Cryptograms in Shakespeare and other studies," by Isaac Hull Platt; and "The Fleeing Nymph," a new volume of lyrical poetry, by Lloyd Mifflin. For younger readers the house will issue "Football Grandma: an Auto-baby-ography," as told by Tony, edited by Carolyn S. Channing Cabot, with an introduction by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, with many illustrations showing Tommy's life up to his first pair of trousers.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready the following books: "The Beautiful Birthday Book," with colored designs and decorated paging; Walter Jerrold's "Charles Lamb," issued in the Bell's Miniature Series of Great Writers; "Hans Holbein," by Arthur B. Chamberlain, in the Bell's Miniature Series of Painters; "The Last Chance," a tale of the Golden West, by Ralph Boldrewood; "A Waif's Progress," by Rhoda Broughton; the second volume of Agnes B. C. Dunbar's "Dictionary of Saintly Women;" Edmund Gosse's "Sir Thomas Browne," in the English Men of Letters Series; "New Creations in Plant Life," an authoritative account of the life and work of Luther Burbank, by W. S. Harwood; Hewlett's "Forest Lovers," in the edition de luxe; "Essays on Mediæval Literature," by W. P. Ker; "A Wanderer in Holland," by E. V. Lucas, with illustrations in color; "Character of Renaissance Architecture," by Charles Herbert Moore; and "Greatheart: Some Talks with Him," by A Pilgrim. Crawford's eagerly expected novel, "Fair Margaret," will be ready shortly.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. will publish October 26 "Sons o' Men," by G. B. Lancaster; "Old Lim Jucklin," by Opie Read; "Myths Every Child Should Know," edited by Hamilton Wright Mabie; volume VIII. of the Harriman "Alaska;" "Country Homes of Famous Americans," by Oliver Bronson Capen; Pt. v. of "The Dog Book," by James Watson; and "Child's Rainy Day Book," by Mary White Talbot. Next month will be issued C. G. Schillings' book on African animals, of which title has been changed to "Flashlights in the Jungle" to clearly differentiate it from the rival edition in the market. This edition is complete, translated by Frederic Whyte and illustrated with 320 animal photographs taken by the author when he went for the fourth time through Equatorial East Africa with a caravan of 170 carriers and a most elaborate photographic outfit. During the winter will be brought out a new and revised edition of Perceval Landon's "The Opening of Tibet," now accepted as the authoritative account of the Younghusband expedition, and already in its third large edition.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO. announce for early publication "A New Idolatry," a series of discourses by Washington Gladden, who speaks with all his usual quiet impressiveness on the worship of money and devotes his first chapter especially to "tainted money." A very fine work of which the publishers are justly proud will be known as "A Portfolio of Bird Portraits." The artist is Bruce Horsfall, who has spent many years in studying the cat-bird, the meadow lark, the robin, the bluebird, the wood-thrush, the brown-thrasher, the bobolink and the starling in Professor W. E. D. Scott's bird laboratory at Princeton University. Professor Scott supplies the text and has superintended the reproduction of the plates, which were made by a special photolithograph process and are highly artistic replicas of the original water colors. John T. McCutcheon, "the Mr. Dooley of the pencil," is to have a book entitled "The Mysterious Stranger, and Other Cartoons," containing about 150 cartoons of men and events contributed during the last year or so to the Chicago Tribune. This is just about ready.

THE GRAFTON PRESS, New York, have just ready "The Days and Hours of Raphael," by Rachel A. La Fontaine, who has gathered from many sources information about Raphael's wonderful paintings, which is illustrated by twenty reproductions of his work; "The Bivouac of the Dead and Its Author," by George W. Ranck, tells the story of Theodore O'Hara's famous elegy, which was once known and quoted from one end of the country to the other, but with which the present generation is not so familiar; and "Milton Blairlee and the Green Mountain Boys," by the Rev. Willard Goss Davenport, which is based on authentic history and written in a style specially attractive to boy readers. In their genealogical department the house have issued "Concerning Genealogies," which goes minutely into the best ways of collecting, printing and publishing genealogical data; "The Grafton Genealogical Chart Index," arranged for the indexing of ten generations; and "The Grafton Genealogical Notebook, American Form," a self-compiling notebook for practical genealogists, amateur or professional.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY announce for the holiday an attractive little Flower Series under the authorship of N. Hudson Moore, which will include volumes on lilies, roses, violets, lilacs, tulips and chrysanthemums, made up of the legends of all lands that have gathered around these popular flowers. Each little book will be appropriately illustrated with prints in duotint after many unusual photographs of natural flowers. Another work of the same conscientious compiler will soon be out under the name "Old Pewter, Copper, Brass and Old Sheffield Plate." Lillie Hamilton French has also written a delightful book for this house called "The Joy of Life," in which she puts before her readers the duty of joyfulness and the great help of cheerfulness in daily life. For younger readers will be "Ideals for Girls," inculcating the much-needed sweet womanliness so sadly lacking to-day and most happily worded by Mrs. Frank Learned, well known under her pen-name, "Priscilla Wakefield." Outcault also is to delight the youngsters with "Tige: His Story," and "Buster Brown's Pranks."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "The Voyage of Discovery," a complete and elaborate account of the important Antarctic expedition undertaken by Captain Robert F. Scott, which is fully illustrated from photographs and sketches, many of which are reproduced in color; "The Wood Fire in No. 3," in which F. Hopkinson Smith tells a number of genial and pleasant stories, connected by a slight thread that makes them almost read like a novel, and whose work has been illustrated in colors by Alonzo Kimball; "Our Neighbors," including the best of Charles Dana Gibson's work during the past year, and a number also of hitherto unpublished drawings; "The Story of the Champions of the Round Table," by Howard Pyle, with the author's own happy drawings and decorations; and "The Philosophy of Religion," a work in two volumes by Prof. George Trumbull Ladd, offering a critical and speculative treatise on man's religious experience and development in the light of modern science and reflective thinking. The house has just ready "John Chinaman at Home," by E. J. Hardy, author of "How to be Happy Though Married."

PAUL ELDER & COMPANY, San Francisco, Cal., will publish shortly an authorized translation from the Italian, by E. L. Murison, of Neera's "Anima Sola," which will be brought out under the title of "The Soul of an Artist." The work is said to be suggestive, slightly, of Amiel, but is original in conception. It has elicited the most conflicting criticism in Italy and in Germany. They have also nearly ready "The Critique of Socialism," by Edward F. Adams, first delivered as an after-dinner address before the Russian Club of Oakland. It is an arraignment of Socialism, in style somewhat droll, but with a serious purpose. They announce that the third edition of "Prosit," a book of toasts, is just off the press, and that second editions of "Joke Book Note Book," "Blue Monday Book," and "Good Things and Graces" are now ready. Their successful "Matrimonial Primer" is issued in a first edition of 25,000 copies, of which the greater number were sold before publication, and this year's issue of the "Cynic's Calendar" brings its total sale to 100,000 copies. The sixth edition of "101 Sandwiches," a celebrated epicurean classic, is just ready, as well as the second edition of "101 Salads" and "101 Chafing Dish Recipes."

HERBERT B. TURNER & CO., of Boston, will publish this fall the following nine volumes of Robert Louis Stevenson's works, in limp leather, with decorations in gold designed by T. B. Hapgood: "Virginibus Puerisque, and Other Papers;" "Memories and Portraits;" "Familiar Studies of Men and Books," two volumes; "An Inland Voyage;" "Travels with a Donkey;" "A Child's Garden of Verses;" and "Underwoods;" "Essays and Criticisms," a collection of essays published for the first time outside of subscription edition; "Story of a Lie," a collection of three stories for the first time published outside of subscription edition. Special type has been used in these volumes—initial headbands and tailpieces have been especially designed for the set. Each volume has a different photogravure frontispiece portrait of Stevenson, including reproductions of photographs taken at San Francisco, New York, Bournemouth, Eng., Sydney and Hawaii, also Hollyer's etching, Alexander's head, and St. Gaudens's Tablet. A vignetted photogravure embellishes each title-page, and among them are included Stevensons birthplace, Edinburgh home, Bournemouth House, The Old Manse, Vailima and the Edinburgh University. In addition to these a number of the volumes are illustrated. Other titles will be added to the set at an early date.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish October 28 "English Hours," by Henry James, with 80 illustrations by Joseph Pennell uniform in general style with the author's "Little Tour in France" and Howells's "Italian Journeys;" "James G. Blaine," by Edward Stanwood, in the American Statesmen, Second series; "In Our Convent Days," by Agnes Repplier, giving reminiscences of her childhood in a French-American school in which her bosom friend was the girl who became Mrs. Joseph Pennell; "Louisiana," by Albert Phelps, in the American Commonwealths series; and "Letters From the Dead to the Dead," collected, edited and arranged with notes by "Oliver Lector," a learned and ingenious series of cleverly fabricated letters from De Bruck to Bacon, from Henry Briggs to John Napier, from Shakespeare to Bacon, etc. There will also appear a Special Cambridge edition on Oxford paper of the works of Robert Browning, of which the edition in levant binding will make a fine gift-book; a new edition of "The One-Hoss Shay," with colored illustrations and decorations by Howard Pyle; Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities," in the Riverside Literature series; a volume of "Selections from the Poems of John Godfrey Saxe;" and "The Great Adventure," by George Cabot Lodge, a sonnet sequence divided into three parts, dealing respectively with life, with love, and with death.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. publish to-day Captain A. T. Mahan's new work in two volumes, entitled "Sea Power and Its Relations to the War of 1812," sumptuously illustrated; "The Divining Rod," a romance of the oil regions of Pennsylvania in their early days, by Francis N. Thorpe; "The Joy That No Man Taketh from You," by Lilian Whiting; and "Select Poems of Robert Browning," arranged chronologically with biographical and literary notes by A. J. George, editor of "The Poetical Works of Wordsworth." On October 30 there will be ready "The Brothers' War," by John C. Reed, a prominent attorney of Atlanta, Ga., dealing with the slavery question and other problems that brought on the Civil War; and "Two in Italy," by Maud Howe, who did such fine work in "Roma Beata" last year. For November are announced: "The Florence of Landor," by Lilian Whiting; "Il Libro D'Oro," a collection of more than 120 miracle stories and sacred legends translated from the Italian by Mrs. Francis Alexander; "American Railroad Rates," by Judge Walter C. Noyes, author of "The Law of Intercorporate Relations;" "In and About the Old Missions of California," a historical and pictorial account of the Franciscan Missions by George Wharton James; "The Oak Tree Fairy Book," edited by Clifton Johnson, and profusely illustrated by Willard Bonte; "Men of Old Greece," biographical stories for children by Jennie Hall; and "Memoir of Colonel Henry Lee," prepared by John T. Morse, Jr., editor of the American Statesmen Series; "French Pathfinders," (Marquette, Cartier, La Salle, etc.,) by William Henry Johnson, will be ready shortly, but the date of publication is not yet fixed.

Color.—"The heroine of this story is absolutely colorless."

"What do you mean by 'colorless'?"

"Well, she loves her husband and has no talent for epigram."—Puck.

The Secret Process.—"How do you manage to understand Browning's poems?"

"I read him in an edition that has no explanatory foot-notes."—Puck.

A Kansas paper says the scarcity of hired girls is due to the fact that the girls make more money by writing stories. That must be what is the matter with the popular magazines.—Indianapolis News.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

These Ads. Will Sell these Books

That is what we both want. Here are "The Pang-Yanger" and "My Friend the Chauffeur," two books that are really good—read them yourself and you will see—that we are advertising in papers having a circulation of 5,000,000—at least 15,000,000 readers. You can sell these books. They are utterly different, but both good.

A Personal Note

WE are using this space at this busy season, when so many are calling your attention to their publications, in order to thank you for the cordial and appreciative reception given our efforts to build up a line of beautiful, useful and artistic books at reasonable prices.

WE have just moved our offices to 40–42 East 19th Street (a few steps from Broadway), where, our friends advise us, we have the most artistic sample rooms in New York. We want you to feel perfectly free when visiting New York to have your mail addressed in our care, and make our comfortable reception room your headquarters.

WE feel much indebted to you for the prominent display you have always made of our publications, not only, we believe, because we have tried to make our line your most profitable one, but because of your desire to encourage our efforts. On this account we know you will be glad to learn that with our larger quarters we will have every facility for turning out a finer and more artistic line than ever before, and at the same time keeping in mind a popular price and good profit for you.

WITH all good wishes for a most prosperous season, we are, Cordially yours,

Two New Rorer Books

IN the course of her teaching and editorial work there have come to Mrs. Rorer frequent requests for a book that will provide a daily bill of fare; one that will be at once rational, its directions easy of accomplishment, and give an excellent variety. We take pleasure in announcing such a book—

Mrs. Rorer's Every Day Menu Book

Containing a menu for every meal in the year arranged by months and days; menus for special occasions; illustrations of decorated tables for various social events, with appropriate menus; a department of menus without meats. A fine volume that ought to commend itself to every housekeeper.

It is bound in cloth, handsomely illustrated. $1.50 net

Mrs. Rorer's Cakes, Icings and Fillings

Everyone is interested in the cake problem. There is possibly no item in the bill of fare about which a woman prides herself as the ability to make a good cake. But how to add variety to goodness? Here's the book to help. Just off the press. Contains a large number of enticing and valuable cake recipes, with directions how to fill and how to ice them when necessary.

FOX, DUFFIELD & COMPANY'S famous juveniles lead off this year with "Verses for Jock and Joan," by Helen Hay (Mrs. Payne Whitney), a handsome quarto, with full-page pictures in four colors, and a border design in two colors, by Charlotte Harding. Another winning book for little folks is "More Adventures of the Happy Heart Family," with pictures in color, as well as many little sketches scattered through the book, by the author, Virginia Gerson. The little heart-shaped people in "The Happy Heart Family," published last year, were hailed everywhere as successors to the Brownies, and here are more of them. The price of this book—$1.00 postpaid—brings it within everybody's reach. Two capital books of humor in verse are "At the Sign of the Dollar," by Wallace Irwin," and "More Misrepresentative Men," by Harry Graham. Captain Graham's last book, "Misrepresentative Men," is now in its fifth edition. An extra amount of interest has been taken in his work since his engagement to Ethel Barrymore. Mr. Irwin's "At the Sign of the Dollar" has started off with a dash equal to its own illustrations by Kemble. "The Fusser's Book" has "caught on" beyond a doubt, reaching a second large printing before publication. A powerful story, worth keeping an eye on, is "An Eye for an Eye," by Clarence S. Darrow.

Schillings's achievement is of the greatest scientific and popular interest. In spite of the fact that the book is not copyrighted in the United States and anybody can issue it, the Harpers, following their usual custom, are paying the author a royalty on every copy sold, thus yielding him a large and unexpected revenue.

THE above is from an editor's sheet sent out by Harper & Bros. relating to their "pirated version" of Schillings's remarkable work, "With Flashlight and Rifle," the authorized and complete edition of which we bought.

The facts are that up to the day of their publication neither the German publisher nor author had had any communication from them whatever, except that their London representative wrote on July 10 trying to buy 15 electrotypes of full-page pictures from the German publisher, and was told that he had sold the American rights. So the Harpers were fully aware three months ago that they were taking without any authority a work for which another publisher had paid a high price.

The pictures reproduced in Harper's Weekly, as well as those in their book (only a third of the complete series), were copied from the half-tones in a copy of the German edition.

The World's Work, for December, and our authorized edition of the book (called "FLASHLIGHTS IN THE JUNGLE"), will be the only adequate presentation of Mr. Schillings's extraordinary achievement. The volume has been delayed because the translator has been collaborating with the author, but it will probably be ready early next month.

COMPLETION OF THE

American Catalog 1900-1905

The Second (or Supplementary Volume) nearly ready

We are now completing the printing of the second volume of the new "American Catalog, 1900–1905," which will be ready for delivery in November.

The first volume, issued in June last, is a complete record in itself, being a dictionary-catalog of all books recorded between January 1, 1900, and January 1, 1905. In its one alphabet every book is entered at least three times (by author, title and subject), with information as to size, price, publisher, year of issue, etc. It forms the latest addition to the old series of the "American Catalogue," published in quarto form, while the newest volume is an octavo, which is generally conceded to be a much handier shape. We can reasonably affirm that every dealer needs such a permanent catalog in his business, while every library of importance should have this standard bibliographical work on its shelves, since its usefulness in the world of books is on a par with a time-table in the railroad world.

The second, or supplementary volume, contains the full title entries, with annotations, given in the "Weekly Record" of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during the five years 1900, '01, '02, '03, '04, cumulated into one alphabet for each year; that is, into five alphabets. This is planned to answer the demands of librarians, booksellers and others who wish this valuable material, in available shape, for classifying and describing and for permanent reference.

For the book dealer the second volume is a very useful record of book valuation. It gives in form for ready reference brief descriptive notices of the important books published during the period mentioned, describing concisely the contents of each work and explaining many titles which, in themselves, mean little or nothing or are misleading. For descriptive cataloging, a bibliographical work of this kind is almost priceless.

The two volumes are uniformly bound in half morocco. The price is $12.00 for both or $7.50 for either separately. The edition is limited, but 240 copies of the first volume and 145 of the second volume remain unsold. We reserve the right to advance the price when the balance of either is reduced to 100 copies.

Terms of Payment on Both Regular and Special Offers

Terms are always subject to special agreement, but in general they are as follows:

On sale for 90 days: all copies sold at the end of that time to be paid for, cash in full, pro rata, the remainder to be returned to us at our expense immediately thereafter, either upon receipt of our request or at the option of the dealer. If further pictures are ordered before the end of the 90-day period, the first lot is to be paid for before the shipment of the new lot. Prices and terms on which new lot may be furnished are a matter for future agreement.

Packing: The pictures are regularly put up in flat pasteboard boxes of 100 pictures each, 95 Sepia and 5 black, or 100 in full original colors, besides two mounted pictures for display purposes.

Window-Display: Dealers are urged to give the pictures a prominent and continuous window-display.

$100 Orders: Dealers who are selling the pictures well are urged to let us ship them in lots of 1,000. We pack the 10 boxes of 100 pictures each in a neat wooden box with sliding cover. The whole occupies only two cubic feet of space. We prepay the express and all unsold pictures are returnable to us at our expense (as stated above). The profit is then 150% on every retail sale, instead of 66⅔%.

Sample Copies: A sample in sepia or black will be sent in a mailing-tube, to any address in the world, on receipt of 20 cents in stamps (of any country); in full original colors for $1.10.

Two Beautiful Gift Books

An Orchard Princess

By

Ralph Henry Barbour

Author of

"KITTY OF THE ROSES"

Mr. Barbour's new story has all of the charm of "Kitty," together with an originality of the central idea of the story and the cleverness in its execution that add much to the entertainment of the book.

Illustrated in color, with page designs in tint, by JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG. Large 12mo, bound in cloth, with portrait cover, in ornamental box, $2.00.

Miss Cherry-Blossom of Tokyo

By

John Luther Long

An especially beautiful edition of this popular novel of a popular writer and co-author of the famous Japanese play "The Darling of the Gods."

On each page of the book, from cover to cover, are Japanese pictures printed in the tints of old Japan. Nine full-page illustrations in colors and tints, lining papers of cherry blossoms, and a cover of especially characteristic design.

Illustrated. Ornamental cloth, 12mo, $2.50
